1. We enclose herewith a reproduction of a letter dated Havana, 29 November 1966 that was received by AMSCROLL. We believe that the letter, signed "Carlos", was written by Jose BREVIL, Manager of the International Department of the National Bank of Cuba. We say this as in early November AMSCROLL mailed a copy of its newsletter to BREVIL using as a return address the one used by the writer of this letter; this combination of name and return address was not used by AMSCROLL in its other mailings. The Station had obtained BREVIL's name and position in the National Bank from a refugee debriefing report. 2. There are no Station traces of BREVIL. However, the tone of the letter is friendly and it might therefore be useful to index this information in the event that BREVIL should travel abroad. 3. The Station examined the envelope for evidence of tampering. None was found, though this is not conclusive.

1. We forward by separate cover the AMSCROLL report, page 4 of which contains the study on Cuban-Canadian lobster trade discussed in the reference as well as a clip of the AMTAPFY-1 treatment of this study. It may be of interest to report that the mailing list routinely used for this and similar studies of this nature contains the following Canadian firms: Montreal Star; Canadian Intelligence Publications, P.O. Box 130, Fleasherton, Ontario; Financial Times of Montreal; Financial Post, Toronto; Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Montreal; Canadian Press, a news agency located in Toronto; and the Ministry of Trade and Commerce. 2. As part of the follow-up play Station of course would appreciate any reaction from the Canadian press or other sources. We will particularly appreciate being informed if it comes to the attention of Station Ottawa that the health authorities inspect, condemn, or otherwise take any action on these shipments.
